MALARIOUS FEVERS. You are at liberty to use my name in praise of your Regulator as prepared by you, and re-commend it to every one as the best preventive for Fever and Ague in the world. I plant in southwestern Georgia, near Albany, Georgia, and must say that it has done more good on my plantation among my negroes than any medicine I ever used. It supersedes quinine if taken in time. Yours, &c., Hon. B. H. HII.L, Ga.

CHILDREN!-Your Regulator is superior to any oth-er remedy for Malarial Di-seases among children, and it has a large sale in this sec-tion of Georgia.—[W. M. Russelt, Albany, Ga.

CONSTIPATION. TESTIMONY OF THE CHIEF JUSTICE OF GEORGIA .-- I have used Simmons' Liver Regulator for constipation of my bowels, caused by a temporary derangement of the liver, for the last three or four years, and always, when used according to the directions, with decided benefit. I think it is a good medicine for the derangement of the liver-at least such has been my personal experience in the use of it.

HIRAM WARNER,

EDITORIAL -We have tested its virtues, personally, and know that for Dyspep-sia, Biliousness and Throbbing Headache, it is the best medicine the world eversaw. Having had during the last twenty years of my life to attend to Racing Stock, and having had so much trouble with them with Colic, Grubbs, &c., gave me a great deal of trouble. The Hand of Fate.

Some months ago a genteel-looking Frenchman, about 35 years of age, giving the name of Isaac Riche, came to Augusta county and purchased some land in a retired cove in the Blue Ridge mountains, not far from Waynesboro, and on it built a neat cottage. He was a man of many accomplishments and spoke several languages, but was very reserved and made few acquaintances. Among those few was the Rev. Jacob Hildebrand, to whose care he had his letters directed. They were all foreign let-ters, and chiefly from France. He was gentlemanly in his manner, and gained the good-will of the few persons he knew.

On Tuesday evening last a stranger got off the train and asked for the Bruce House, in Waynesboro, and then asked where the Rev. Mr. Hildebrand lived. Being told that it was five miles out of town he got a horse, and the same evening rode out there.He stated to Mr. H. that he was a farmer looking for a farm, and talked about who lived on the farms around. Riche being mentioned, he said he knew him and manifested a wish for Mr. H. to ride there that evening, but that gentleman declined, saying he would go the next morning. The stranger, who afterwards proved to be a New York detective named Newcomb, returned to Waynesboro. That night he secured the services of Billy Shep herd, the barber, and next morning drove with him in a spring wagon to Mr. H.'s, who accompanied him to Riche's, who was found at home and alone. The stranger presented Riche a letter which he recognized as from his brother, whereupon the detective drew a revolver and pronounced him his prisoner, much to the astonishment of Mr. Hildebrand and the colored driver.

Riche was thunderstruck and sunk to the ground, offering no resistance. His captor placed him in the wagon and drove to Waynesboro, where he iroued him, and putting him in a freight car, started East with him before the Waynesboro authorities knew anything of it. During the drive to the town the prisoner spoke but once after leaving his cottage, and that was a remark as to the right road. He spent his time making memoranda in a note

The accused was formerly a school teacher in France, from whence he fled to escape a prosecution for rape committed on one of his pupils. The detective said he had traveled all over the United States in hunting him. He was finally discovered by letters put in the French postoffice by his brother, who was watched. The last and fatal one when it arrived at the New York postoffice was given to Newcomb by the U.S. Marshal, and he find ing it directed to the care of "Rev. J. Hildebrand, Waynesboro', Augusta county, Va., brought it to its destination, and it was this that he handed Riche. He also had the photograph of the accused, received from the French police. The detective said he expected a large reward. The penalty of Riche's crime is the guillotine. - Staunton Vindicator. A case coming within the extradition treaty existing between the republic of France and the United States came up yesterday before Commissioner White. Isaac Rech, a French man, was arrested by Deputy Marshal Newcomb on affidavits presented by the French Consul General at this port, charging Rech with the commission of a very serious offence under the French laws. The papers in the case show that the accused was a teacher in a government institution for learning in the village of Eriencourt, in France, which was attended by the children of the villagers; that a supply of fresh Butter and Poultry, at my Rech, during the years 1875 6, had committed outrages on several of the youthful pupils, and that the specific charge against him, and on which the papers for his arrest here and extradition are based, was for violation of the per son of Anna Alman, a girl between twelve and thirteen years old. It is also stated that the knowledge of a similar outrage coming to the ears of the mother of one of his victims she died from the shock. Rech immediately fled to this country, making his way to the State of Virginia, where he purchased 164 acres of wild land at Waynesboro', on a credit of $200. Here he remained isolated, and prob ably secure from the reach of justice, had he continued to reside in the forest shanty he had erected for himself; but in an evil hour he came to Newark, N. J., and resumed his old occupation of schoolmaster. Here the sleepless eye of justice got a squint of him, and he decamped, seeking again his Virginia home. But the eye of justice uncrringly pursued, and his countryman Dubert was on his track, traced him to his lair, arrested him and brought him here. Rech is about thirty-six years of age, reticent as to the charge or any of the circumstances implication him, but half admits that he will All orders from the country will receive return to France without putting the French authorities to any trouble in proving a case un der our laws justifying his extradition.
